We exchanged a couple of emails about the show and her experience. She sent a postcard of the show to celebrate the show’s opening night, and an invitation to come and see the show. And then it was up to us to go to see the show, which was at the Orbit Theatre. We went in search of her and were relieved to find her, as there were lots of people milling around the Orbit. We caught up with Toni and she took us in and we went and saw the show. It was truly fantastic. Her whole production team were hard at work and the play is beautiful. We were fascinated to find out more about this show and how it came to Fringe. Our conversations moved on from the show to other local activities and from there I began to develop an interest in what else was happening in the area. I also became aware of the very special story of the place, which is emerging as a unique piece of the great city. Toni was a fantastic

Mouse Wheel Accelerator is a small application that lets you set up your iPhone's mouse wheel scrolling effect. This small utility provides an easy solution for desktop users, as it works equally well with web browsers, graphics editors, and other programs. Mouse Wheel Accelerator works by enabling you to delay your mouse wheel scrollings, thus allowing your browser or application to scroll smoothly. Its transparent operation is a simple yet efficient way to give your scrolling experience the iPhone-like smoothness. Mouse Wheel Accelerator, formerly known as MouseWheelNotifier, is compatible with Windows XP, Vista, and 7, while the user interface remains unchanged, in case you are unfamiliar with the system tray icon.
