2020: THE RIDE

The choice is yours, but it must be made quickly. Using your skills, you must help your compatriots escape from the underworld of the Mafia while protecting them from being killed. The terrifying claws of the Gomorrah come in the shape of some of the lowest rabble to cause harm to your people and to you, and it is your job to devise the best way to eliminate all threats without breaking the rules and losing your friends. The campaign follows a narrative arc which may vary depending on decisions made in the choices menu, but which completes itself after the final decision. To get to know the characters you have to choose the right decisions or consequences will befall. Will you be able to achieve your goals? Game "Midnight Caravan" Gameplay: There is no way out of this place. The mafia has taken control, and the caravan is easy prey for them, now you're left to beg for help from the local mobsters. Be wary; only win as many allies as you can, if you're lucky you'll be able to escape. Game "Midnight Caravan" Gameplay: Beware! The Mafia has taken control! Can you help your friends, or will they fall as collateral damage to be arrested and killed? Game "Midnight Caravan" Gameplay: In the middle of a civil war a group of outcasts caravan take shelter in a house after a political assassination leaves one of their leaders dead. But this refuge turns into a trap of deceit and violence, because the Mafia is the only force that can offer them protection from the unending civil war. Game "Midnight Caravan" Gameplay: On your way to the small village where you were once the lord's wife and now live in exile, your faithful steward has vanished. The road to the mountain where your old house lies is dangerous, but it's also the only way to track down your missing family member. The madman will do anything to get at you, and even if you manage to find some help from the local community there's still the problem of the bandits that roam the area. Game "Midnight Caravan" Gameplay: Youve suffered terrible losses on this road. A few hours ago the mayor of the small village where you arrived has been assassinated on the church doors, and you need to use the help of the local mobsters to get home. Game "Midnight Caravan" Gameplay: The Civil War has killed most of the caravan's members

What's new:

...or the No Show One of the best parts of mystery writing is being woken up in the middle of the night, being bounced around, set down, and then going back to sleep after the author mentions a certain name. It's like a wonderful, enigmatic gift. Like waking up to find an old friend sitting at the table with your breakfast. "Cape Cod Café. 8:25 AM." And you're happy. "Oh, that's him. That's John Goodman!" And then some of you people are like "WTF?!?" and some of you guys are like "WHAT?", and then still others who actually know that John Goodman is alive and a dear friend of yours who is from Louisville, KY, start discussing how he just might be appearing in person in a few months or weeks or hours. At that moment, another cup of sweet, strong coffee hits your lips. And you step in, gently take away the litter from the table, and ask for details. Where is he apparently going to be? At what hospital? At what bed? Who is he staying with? Who is he visiting? "William and Mary Hospital. He's not in the ICU. He's in the Surgical Ward. He's been in that bed - I don't know, four days." For his arrival. That he hasn't showed up already. He's probably just crashing for a day or two, probably not eating, and then he'll be out the front door before you know it. "Do you believe in signs?" you ask. "No," she says. "But what are you going to tell him?..." "Just...wait and see." Well, dammit. You knew you'd have to manage the disappointment if John Goodman didn't show up for his visit that was supposed to be today. You've kind of made yourself a deal. You did mention that you're up and having breakfast with him, but you didn't say what time he was supposed to arrive. "I'm not going to say anything about the time you're supposed to come," you'd say, "Just enjoy being here."
