Photos: Persian Gulf map as seen on the TAW/AV-8B. Unit Information: The AV-8B is in service since 1970's and has been in operation ever since. The Navy carriers retired their AV-8A Harriers in the early 1990's and during the 90's the navy decided to replace the previous model with the next generation. The AV-8B has improved performance, range, payload and is more manoeuvrable than its predecessor. The fighter is one of the few aircraft that has a service with the US and European forces. Not only they were in the US Navy but also operated by US Marines and have also been operated by the US Airforce (F-15E Strike Eagle). The AV-8B is an all weather multi-role aircraft that is capable of carrying out many different missions. The AV-8B is great for anti-surface warfare and is the ideal aircraft for CAS missions. The AV-8B has also been used in combat missions in the Persian Gulf during the 1991 Gulf War against Iraq. The AV-8B Harrier is capable of operating from both the F-14 Tomcat as well as the F-15E Strike Eagle. Optional Carrier Ready: Awaiting Air Wing tasking, or up to squadron ready as soon as they are received. INTRODUCTION: "Bomb!" A shout filled the air as the 24th Marine Expeditionary Unit and the 16th Marine Expeditionary Unit came under a series of incoming Iranian Grad missiles. The command and control radar had picked up a series of incoming missiles that were also picked up by the combat aircraft of the 24th MEU. The launch of the Grad missiles were just in time as the AV-8B flew low enough over the heads of the incoming attack to strike with its 20mm ammunition. It was a coordinated strike as the Harriers loaded their small munitions, swooped over and released a number of the powerful missiles that were turned by magnetic and acoustic means. The first Grad to strike and blow up was marked by the dropping of four charges and then the aircraft turned away as two more strikes impacted nearby. The Av-8B turned and swerved to the right as an incoming missile impacted. The missile followed its target and exploded, leaving an enormous crater. The AV-8B turned left, slipping a few thousand feet over the sandy landscape and dove to the surface. The Harrier continued its mission of destroying the Dinosaur Adventure 2 Dinosaurs are majestic beasts with great manes. They just don't seem to move that fast anymore. Every pretty girl wants one. And every guys wants to meet a dino-lover. And so... Dinosaurs are back. Actually, they never left the second they left the first movie. Dinosaurs A Prehistoric Adventure 2 has one main goal. Write a clever comedy script. The plot is a pair of dino lovers that fall in love. However, they are hidden in a large herd of dinos. A comedic duo must rid the large herd of dinos to find their love. The plot is set in a small mountain town. The humans have the same little world view of dinos as the dinos do. There are two things that make Dinosaurs A Prehistoric Adventure 2 unique and unusual from the first. The usage of human comedians to fill the role of the dinos lead to a squeaky-clean feel that would be hard to get on a prequel. It also uses some more modern running dialogue which grounds the experience down to being more comfortable for the target audience. It is made so that anyone can enjoy the movie. From the young kids to the adults! Also, with the recent release of the Dinosaur Park video game (yes, they still gave the kiddies something for Christmas!) it inspired yet another chapter in the dino-adventure world! A second weakness of the original movie (that Dinosaurs a Prehistoric Adventure 2 sort of borrowed from) was the lack of a "hero" dinosaur. Dinosaurs A Prehistoric Adventure 2 adds the missing "make you want to fly" dinosaur. Then again, with only 2 movies to draw from most dialogue writers chose to have the humans target the dinosaurs that could hold their own with the humans. Dinosaurs A Prehistoric Adventure 2 also fixes a glitch that all the characters don't seem to age. As humans go, Bill and Ted are getting older. And, in fact, all humans get older when they pass the century mark (count yourselves lucky with only 50 or 100 years' worth of design and voice dialogue to deal with). On the downside side, I also found the movie just a little too short (12 short minutes). For only a short movie, 12 short minutes went by fast. Maybe a

The behaviors described in the "eco-bonuses" do not pretend to be exhaustive, nor to be within the reach of each and every one of us. A first version of the game was designed in 2014, and kept as a prototype till the upheavals of early spring 2020. This 2021 version is intended as a symbol of hope.
